

HEALTH RIGHTS FOR CHILDREN

Children's Health Scotland is the leading Scottish children's healthcare charity, first founded in 1961 as Mother Care for Children in Hospital. The health and wellbeing of children and young people lies at the heart of our work. We deliver health and wellbeing services directly to children and young people and we are the only charity dedicated to informing, promoting, and campaigning on behalf of the needs and rights of all children and young people with health conditions.

- We provide expertise and information to children and young people, families, carers, educators, and health professionals and are a national voice for health-related issues relating to children and young people.
- Our charity is also a champion for health-related play in hospital, in the community or at home. More than just a chance to have fun, play is serious business when it comes to a child's health and healthrelated play can help children physically, mentally, and emotionally.

AND YOUNG PEOPLE

All children and young people under the age of 18 have rights. The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC) sets out the 42 rights that all children and young people are entitled to.

Article 24 talks about young people's rights in relation to health care. You have the right to the best health possible and to medical care and information.'

Children's Health Scotland is a member of the European Association for Children in Hospital (EACH) which has produced a charter of 10 standards or rights for children and young people's healthcare at times of illness. We asked young people to come up with a young person's version of the charter and this booklet is the result.

We'd like to say thank you to all the young people and adults who gave us their ideas, suggestions and time to produce this charter.
